

Position Description:

College of Management and Economics (CoME) at Tianjin University, the oldest and top research university in China, invites applications for full-time tenure-track faculty positions of all ranks (Assistant / Associate / Full Professor) with interests in Operations Management (O.M.).

The CoME, as a leading school of management and economics in China, now has a wide selection of disciplines from management and economics to engineering, with strengths in all 3 major management disciplines, i.e. Management Science and Engineering (MSE), Business Administration (BA), and Public Administration (PA), and all of its MBA, MPA and EMBA programs are the first batch in China. It has over 30 international partner schools, including Purdue University(USA), University of Reading(UK) and University of Victoria(Canada).

Applicants are supposed to have a doctorate in relevant fields by August 2016. Applicants for assistant professor positions should have the research capability of publishing in top-tier journals, while applicants for higher academic positions should have a well-qualified record of research and teaching effectiveness.

The compensation package (including salary, relocation fund, and fringe benefits) will match with qualifications. In addition, CoME will provide additional internal funding for high-quality research.
