

Suggested Advertisement

The University of Rhode Island

Lecturer, Technology and Microsoft Excel/Office Certification

The Supply Chain Management (SCM) area at the University of Rhode Island seeks to hire a full-time academic year lecturer with demonstrated knowledge in the field of supply chain and/or operations management for the Fall of 2018 and anticipated renewal.

This is a one-year position with anticipated renewal.

Teach 12 credit-hours of introductory and/or graduate courses in Operations and Supply Chain Management each semester (or equivalent), in primarily technology skills courses such as Excel/Office. Teach and/or coordinate undergraduate and/or masters level courses according to the curricular needs of the College of Business. Supervise and mentor undergraduate and/or graduate students in using Excel/Office tools on industry problems and mentoring students in the content needed for their APICS certification.

Visit the URI jobs website at: <https://jobs.uri.edu> to apply and view complete details for job posting (F00077). Please attach the following 2 (PDF) documents to your online Faculty Employment Application: (1) Cover letter including a description of how your qualifications match the requirements for the position, and (2) Curriculum vitae, which should also include any Microsoft certifications, and also provide names and contact information of three professional references (as one complete document).

Application Deadline: The search is open until filled. First consideration will be given to applications received by March 1, 2018. Second consideration may be given to applications received by April 1, 2018. Applications received subsequent to second consideration date (April 1, 2018) may not be given full consideration.

APPLICATIONS MUST BE SUBMITTED ONLINE ONLY.

The University of Rhode Island is an AA/EEOD employer. Women, persons of color, protected veterans, individuals with disabilities, and members of other protected groups are encouraged to apply.