

UCLA Anderson seeking visitor for Winter 2020

The UCLA Anderson School of Management is seeking an instructor (level to be determined based upon experience) for the winter quarter of 2020, to teach several sections of our Operations and Technology Management core course in the MBA program. Applicants should have or be close to earning their PhD degree, and should have a successful record teaching similar courses for MBA students. The course runs from early January through mid-March 2020, and is taught twice a week.

Please submit applications materials, including CV and evidence of teaching record, through <https://recruit.apo.ucla.edu/JPF04551>. We will start reviewing applications immediately and will continue reviewing applications until the position is filled.

The University of California is an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, age or protected veteran status. For the complete University of California nondiscrimination and affirmative action policy, see: UC Nondiscrimination & Affirmative Action Policy.

Charles J. Corbett
IBM Chair in Management
Professor of Operations Management and Sustainability
UCLA Anderson School of Management
charles.corbett@anderson.ucla.edu