

Management: Assistant Professor (tenure-track) to teach introductory and upper-level undergraduate courses in Supply Chain & Operations Management; maintain an active research program and publish in highly-regarded journals; advise students; and provide service to the institution at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. The appointment begins in August 2024.

The Farmer School of Business graduates approximately 1,000 students per year across its undergraduate and graduate programs. The Farmer School of Business is housed in a state-of-the-art building and is home to several nationally recognized programs. The Management Department is home to a group of faculty dedicated to providing outstanding teaching and research in various topics related to supply chain and operations management. The SC&OM area is rated as the #18 undergraduate program by Gartner, a global research and advisory firm. The Center for Supply Chain Excellence fosters student engagement, corporate partnerships, and cutting-edge research.

Required: Doctorate in Supply Chain Management, Operations Management, Logistics, Strategic Management, or closely related field. ABDs may apply but all degree requirements must be completed by December 31, 2024 for appointment to a second year.

Consideration may be given to candidates who demonstrate strong research potential and a commitment to teaching excellence.
