

Instructor of Logistics and Supply Chain Management

FAC00243PO23

JOB DESCRIPTION

The University of South Carolina Upstate is a positive, diverse, and empowering institution for motivated, success-minded students who want to be challenged academically, supported personally, and pushed to the boundaries of their potential in an opportunity-rich environment. Because the University of South Carolina Upstate is proud of its student body, we seek to attract a diverse applicant pool.

The Johnson College of Business and Economics at the University of South Carolina Upstate seeks a dedicated and student-focused educator to join our faculty as Instructor of Logistics and Supply Chain Management in the Department of Management, Entrepreneurship and Marketing. This is a full-time, 9-month, non-tenure-track position with a start date of August 16, 2024. The selected candidate will teach a variety of logistics and/or supply chain management courses, advise students, engage with industry and business communities, contribute to the program's enrollment growth, and provide service to the program, college and university. The selected candidate will also help to identify and inform the college of work-force gaps in order to produce career-ready graduates.

REQUIRED QUALIFICATIONS: Master's degree in Supply Chain Management or related area and at least 5 years of industry experience OR a Bachelor's degree in Supply Chain Management or related area and at least 7 years of industry experience by the start date of the appointment is required. A successful background check is required. Expertise in at least one of the following supply chain areas is required: SAP technology, supply chain analytics, operation excellence and process improvement, purchasing and supply management, supply chain risk management, distribution and warehouse management.
