

Tenure-track Assistant / Associate Professor, Engineering & Management

Clarkson University's David D. Reh School of Business invites applications for a tenure-track position in Engineering & Management to begin July 1, 2025.

Applicants with teaching and research interests in Industrial Management, Operations Research, supply chain management, Project Management, and Advanced Manufacturing are especially desired. Clarkson provides a quality environment for teaching, a collegial environment, and opportunities to engage in research. Applicants for the position must be within 6 months of a Ph.D. in industrial engineering, operations management, and/or operations research or a closely related field by the time of the appointment. The successful candidate will be expected to excel in both teaching and research. Candidates for the Associate Professor rank should have demonstrated a strong record of research, teaching, and service.

For full consideration, the complete application package should be submitted by December 1, 2024. Interested applicants should submit a letter of interest, curriculum vita, teaching and research statements, and names and contacts of three references through the University's website at <http://www.clarkson.edu/hr>.
