

UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS URBANA-CHAMPAIGN
Gies College of Business Department of Business Administration
Information Systems, Operations Management, Supply Chain Management, & Business Analytics (IOSA)
Area
Open Rank, Tenure-Track Faculty Position in Information Systems, Business Analytics, and Operations and Supply Chain Management

The Gies College of Business at Illinois is a world leader in research, teaching, and public engagement. We serve the state, the nation, and the world by creating knowledge, preparing students for lives of impact, and addressing critical societal needs through the transfer and application of knowledge.

Applications are invited from qualified individuals for a 100% full-time assistant, associate, or full professor within the Department of Business Administration. The position is in the Information Systems, Operations Management, Supply Chain Management, and Business Analytics (IOSA) area within the Department of Business Administration.

We seek candidates who will bring excellence to campus via outstanding research, teaching, and service. Candidates will ideally conduct research in the domain of information systems, business analytics, and operations and supply chain management. Research methods of interest include but are not restricted to empirical modeling, behavioral or field experiments, data analytics, machine learning, operations research, and game theory. An ability to teach courses at graduate and undergraduate levels with different delivery formats, e.g., online or in-person is desirable. Applicants must have a Ph.D. in information systems, business analytics, operations management, supply chain management, or a related field.

The University of Illinois offers an outstanding tradition of scholarship and a supportive environment for faculty development and excellence. The Gies College of Business at Illinois is a world leader in research, teaching, and public engagement. In 2020, the Gies iMBA program was named one of the top-ten "Biggest B-School Innovations of The Decade" by Poets and Quants. The college has also become a leader in experiential learning. Gies provides the environment and resources that foster meaningful actions, empower students to make their mark, and put their purpose into practice – to make the world a better place. Gies Business is committed to being a model for a diverse, equitable, and inclusive community, being actively anti-racist, helping the next generation of business leaders do the same, and engaging the public and our corporate partners in these efforts. We are interested in candidates who will bring excellence to campus via outstanding research, teaching, and service.

The Department of Business Administration is a large and diverse unit, which includes graduate and undergraduate programs across eight academic areas (i.e., Organizational Behavior, Strategic Management, International Business, Marketing, Operations Management, Information Systems, Business Analytics, and Supply Chain).
