TENURE-TRACK FACULTY POSITION IN OPERATIONS MANAGEMENT

The Lee Kong Chian School of Business (LKCSB) at Singapore Management University (SMU) invites applications for multiple tenured/tenure-track faculty positions in Operations Management (OM) at all ranks. A Ph.D. (or near completion in the case of junior Assistant rank) in OM or a closely related field is required. While the positions are open for any candidate with research interests in broad domains of OM, those specializing in analytics (AI, machine learning), entrepreneurship, or sustainability are specifically encouraged to apply.

LKCSB is a vibrant and culturally diverse business school, located in the heart of downtown Singapore, with approximately 5,500 students and over 100 full-time faculty members. The school offers a wide array of undergraduate and postgraduate programs, including Ph.D, MBA, EMBA, MSc, DBA, as well as executive education. The OM group at LKCSB consists of 23 faculty members with diverse research expertise with strong publication record.

LKCSB provides internationally competitive remuneration, generous research support and conference funding. International faculty are offered housing and schooling subsidy as well as relocation assistance. The teaching load for pre-tenure faculty is two courses per academic year during their initial four-year contract, three courses per academic year during the second four-year contract (if renewed) and after tenure. Tenured faculty members with exceptional research performance are also eligible for reduced teaching loads.

Applications must be submitted through the following link:
Job Description (2400007F) - Tenure-Track Faculty Position (Operations Management)

Applicants should include a full CV, up to three selected publications or working papers, and a cover letter. Applicants for pre-tenure positions should also include research and teaching statements. Shortlisted candidates will be asked to provide three reference letters, which referees will be requested to send directly to the school.

Candidates who start their application by 23:59 PM on October 3, 2024 (Singapore time, UTC/GMT +8) with an up-to-date CV will be considered for online interviews ahead of the INFORMS Annual Meeting. The deadline for completion of all submissions is 23:59 PM on October 28, 2024 (Singapore time, UTC/GMT +8). Late applications will be accepted, but may not receive full consideration.
