

THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT EL PASO

Woody L. Hunt College of Business Department of Marketing, Management and Supply Chain

Professor of Operations and Supply Chain (Transportation and Logistics)
& Endowed Chair Position

Job Description

The Department of Marketing, Management, and Supply Chain in the Woody L. Hunt College of Business at The University of Texas at El Paso (UTEP) invites applications for a prestigious endowed chair position. The ideal candidate will have an established record of distinguished research evidenced by publications in widely recognized top-tier academic journals and be recognized as a leader in Operations and Supply Chain Management – Transportation and Logistics, especially on U.S.-Mexico trade and commerce issues. The faculty member will be appointed at the rank of full professor and is expected to develop collaborative relationships with the faculty and centers within Hunt College and other regional, national, and international entities to enhance the mission of UTEP. Responsibilities include scholarly research and publishing findings in top academic journals, instruction at undergraduate and graduate levels, and participating in the Ph.D. Program in Business Administration by mentoring doctoral students and serving on dissertation committees, serving on faculty committees, and engaging in community outreach specially with transportation and logistics corporations involved in the intensive U.S.-Mexico trade activities. The anticipated starting date is fall 2025. Salary and benefits are AACSB-competitive and appropriate for the required experience and qualifications. Hiring decisions are subject to final budgetary approval.

Required Qualifications

Candidates should have a Ph.D. in Operations Management, Supply Chain Management, Transportation and Logistics or a related business discipline, with a record of excellence in research (preferably focusing on U.S.-Mexico trade issues) and teaching commensurate with the rank of full professor with tenure at a Carnegie R1 doctoral university. Preference will also be given to applicants with policy-relevant experience working with various centers and institutes. Evidence of successful grantsmanship is also highly valued, as is working with government and non-governmental organizations closely linked to U.S.-Mexico trade and commerce.

Woody L. Hunt College of Business

The Woody L. Hunt College of Business is the only AACSB-accredited business school in the El Paso-Juarez region. The College recently received the largest-ever donation in UTEP's history – $25M from the Woody and Gayle Hunt Family Foundation. The College was renamed in recognition of the historic gift. The gift aims to establish the College as the U.S.-Mexico trade and commerce leader. Given the location of Hunt College on the U.S.-Mexico border, the opportunities for research and ultimate dissemination of knowledge regarding trade issues between the U.S. and Mexico are unparalleled. Hunt College offers the following academic programs: Bachelor of Business Administration

(BBA), Master of Business Administration (MBA), Master of Science in Economics (MSEcon), Master of Accountancy (MAcc), and Ph.D. in Business Administration. The College has approximately 40 staff members and 60 full-time faculty organized into three Departments: Accounting and Information Systems, Economics and Finance, and Marketing, Management and Supply Chain Management. It serves approximately 3,500 undergraduate and graduate students. The College also houses the Hunt Institute for Global Competitiveness and the Center for Free Enterprise.

Department of Marketing, Management and Supply Chain

The department's 24 full-time faculty offer a BBA in Management with concentrations in Entrepreneurship, General Management, and Human Resource Management, a BBA in Marketing, and a BBA in Operations and Supply Chain Management. The department fully participates in the MBA program and in the Ph.D. in Business Administration through concentrations in Management and Marketing, and houses the Enterprise Resource Planning Academy and the Human Capital Management Academy.
