

Quinlan School of Business
Loyola University Chicago

Tenure-Track Assistant Professor Position in Supply Chain Management

The Information Systems and Supply Chain Management (ISSCM) Department of Loyola University Chicago's Quinlan School of Business invites applications for a faculty appointment in Supply Chain Management beginning in the Fall term of 2025. The tenure-track position is open at the Assistant Professor level.

Responsibilities: The ideal candidates will enhance the department's growing tradition for top quality research and teaching in operations and supply chain management. We welcome applications from candidates with all areas of expertise and interest. However, we particularly welcome those with research and teaching interests that include healthcare, retail, or sustainability.

We seek scholars who can support the academic undergraduate, and master's level curriculum in supply chain management and operations, and industry-focused supply chain related activities. Quinlan's reputation in Supply Chain Management in both academic and industry communities is growing. Along with internationally recognized and award-winning faculty, Quinlan has served as host for major supply chain-related academic events. On the industry side, Quinlan houses a Supply Chain and Sustainability Center, opened in 2013, that currently has over 40 corporate members. This center hosts multiple industry-focused supply chain events and offers numerous opportunities for faculty to engage with industry in activities related to applied research and academic curriculum and program development.

For more information about the academic curriculum in supply chain management and the Supply Chain and Sustainability Center, please see: <https://catalog.luc.edu/undergraduate/business/supply-chain-management-bba/>, <https://gpem.luc.edu/portal/program?name=supplychainmanagementms#program-at-a-glance>, and <https://www.luc.edu/supplychaincenter/>

Qualifications:

- Earned (or expected to have earned their degree prior to the effective date of appointment) Ph.D. or DBA in a field such as Supply Chain Management, Operations Management, Industrial Engineering, or Operations Research.
- Candidates should have a demonstrated commitment to quality teaching (graduate and undergraduate), research, and service.
- Research streams which advance the University's mission (www.luc.edu/mission/) will be favorably received by the committee.

Other Information

The Quinlan School of Business at Loyola University Chicago is an AACSB-accredited institution and presently has about 2,000 undergraduate and over 500 graduate students, 95 full-time faculty, and six endowed chairs. Quinlan is housed in the Schreiber Center, a LEED Gold-certified building completed in 2015 and designed to support the school's work to prepare high quality business leaders. Located less than a mile from Chicago's Loop and two blocks from the Magnificent Mile, Loyola's Quinlan School of Business sits in the heart of Chicago, a world-class destination for commerce and culture. Quinlan's location provides close connections to Chicago's business community. Loyola University Chicago is also part of an international network of Jesuit Catholic educational institutions. The School supports an undergraduate business curriculum, including a major and minor in supply chain management, an evening MBA program with both full-time and flex-time students, an EMBA and other executive education programs, and seven specialty master's programs. Quinlan's undergraduate business program was ranked #1 in Chicago (U.S. News & World Report) and multiple programs are in the top 25 (U.S. News & World Report). As a Jesuit Catholic institution of higher education, we seek candidates who will contribute to our mission and deliver a Transformative Education in the Jesuit tradition. Loyola University Chicago is the school of choice for those who wish to seek new knowledge in the service of humanity in a world-renowned urban center as members of a diverse learning community that values freedom of inquiry, the pursuit of truth and care for others. Our mission reflects 'preparing people to lead extraordinary lives.' To learn more about the LUC mission, consult our website at www.luc.edu/mission/. For information about the university's focus on transformative education, consult our website at www.luc.edu/transformiveed.

Application Deadline: The position is open until filled. Position begins in Fall 2025. The committee will begin reviewing applications November 15, 2024.

Required documents:

1. Cover Letter
2. Curriculum Vitae
3. One representative publication
4. Research Statement
5. Teaching Philosophy
6. Diversity Statement
7. References (3)

For the diversity statement, please use the following prompt: How has your research, teaching, and/or service addressed issues of diversity and inclusion, and how do you envision implementing future actions to demonstrate commitment to diversity and inclusion? The committee expects diversity statements of 300 words or fewer.

References will not be contacted immediately, but potentially later, in the review process. In general, the committee encourages candidates to be mindful of the length of the documents in their application, particularly documents regarding their research statement and teaching philosophy.

Application Process: All applicants must apply online at www.careers.luc.edu/. Below is the quick link for posting:

- <https://www.careers.luc.edu/postings/29719>

For additional information, please contact:

Gita Taherkhani, PhD
Assistant Professor of Supply Chain Management
Quinlan School of Business
16 East Pearson Street, Office 432
Chicago, IL 60611
E-mail: gtaherkhani@luc.edu

Mike Hewitt, PhD
Professor of Supply Chain Management
Quinlan School of Business
16 East Pearson Street, Office 424
Chicago, IL 60611
E-mail: mhewitt3@luc.edu